

Saturday, August 10, 2013

11:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

8655 Highway 25 E, Cross Plains, TN 37049

Join Concerned Women for America of Tennessee for a lively discussion on one of our core issues, education, and its effect on our families, communities, state and nation.

Optional lunch choices will be available at cost.

Invite a friend! Men, women and teens are all welcome!

Stop Common Core!

This initiative circumvents federal law and is an affront to states' rights as outlined in the Tenth Amendment.

- An experiment destined for failure
- Loss of local control
- Loss of privacy
- Loss of parental rights
- The bulk of the costs will fall on our state

How Will Common Core Affect Homeschoolers?

Many homeschooling families believe that they can remain insulated from the effects of the unpopular Common Core by maintaining control of their curriculum in their home. In Tennessee, parents have the freedom to choose the curriculum with little oversight from the state, so it's natural to think that federal mandates will not affect home-educating families. Unfortunately, Common Core will trickle down into private schools and homeschools. For homeschoolers, colleges and universities don't look much further than an ACT/SAT score when making admissions decisions. ACT and SAT are now redesigning their tests to align with Common Core.

Do you want to know what Common Core is and how it affects homeschoolers? Also, what you can do about it?

Wonderful Tennessee Speakers:

Lauri Day, Founder of Education Matters Institute

Brenda Causey, State Director of Concerned Women for America of Tennessee

Common Core is an issue that we cannot ignore for the sake of our children and our Constitutional rights. It must be stopped!

This is a free event. Please RSVP by August 8 if at all possible though walk-ins are welcome