

Is Ranked Choice Voting the Way to Go?

Last year at the Missouri Republican Convention a speaker brought the idea of ranked choice voting to the delegates. Many of the delegates were intrigued by the idea. Rep. Dan Stacy took the initiative to research the topic and then sponsor a bill in the Missouri House, HB856, in support of it. Rep. Dan Stacy (R-District 31) will speak on how his bill would work if passed and signed by the governor. He has also sponsored a bill for closed primaries, HB855. He will speak on that as well.

A Little About Ranked Choice Voting:

Voters often feel that they have to vote for the “lesser of two evils,” because their favorite candidate is less likely to win. With ranked choice voting, you can rank candidates in order of choice without having to worry about how others will vote and who is more or less likely to win.

Candidates often win by barraging opponents with a slew of expensive, negative ads, rather than building a positive, grassroots campaign for support. Candidates who have run and won in ranked choice voting elections have been successful because they built grassroots outreach networks. Those more positive and inclusive campaign tactics cost less than polarizing negative radio and television elections, helping to explain why candidates seem able to win ranked choice voting elections even when outspent.

Note: This meeting is for informational purposes only. CWA does not take a position on ranked choice voting.

Invite a friend! Women, men and teens are welcome and encouraged to attend. No RSVP necessary.

Concerned Women for America of Missouri
director@missouri.cwfa.org | 314-608-0168 | mo.cwfa.org

Is Ranked Choice Voting the Way to Go?

Last year at the Missouri Republican Convention a speaker brought the idea of ranked choice voting to the delegates. Many of the delegates were intrigued by the idea. Rep. Dan Stacy took the initiative to research the topic and then sponsor a bill in the Missouri House, HB856, in support of it. Rep. Dan Stacy (R-District 31) will speak on how his bill would work if passed and signed by the governor. He has also sponsored a bill for closed primaries, HB855. He will speak on that as well.

A Little About Ranked Choice Voting:

Voters often feel that they have to vote for the “lesser of two evils,” because their favorite candidate is less likely to win. With ranked choice voting, you can rank candidates in order of choice without having to worry about how others will vote and who is more or less likely to win.

Candidates often win by barraging opponents with a slew of expensive, negative ads, rather than building a positive, grassroots campaign for support. Candidates who have run and won in ranked choice voting elections have been successful because they built grassroots outreach networks. Those more positive and inclusive campaign tactics cost less than polarizing negative radio and television elections, helping to explain why candidates seem able to win ranked choice voting elections even when outspent.

Note: This meeting is for informational purposes only. CWA does not take a position on ranked choice voting.

Invite a friend! Women, men and teens are welcome and encouraged to attend. No RSVP necessary.

Concerned Women for America of Missouri
director@missouri.cwfa.org | 314-608-0168 | mo.cwfa.org